Document owner	International Dyslexia Association
Policy steward	IDA Administration, supported by the Global Network Executive Committee
Approval authority	IDA Chief Executive Officer, following Executive Committee endorsement
Review cycle	Annual administrative review; formal policy review at least every three years

Approval and Use

Approval resolution

The undersigned endorse and approve this handbook as the governing framework for participation in the IDA Global Network, subject to the International Dyslexia Association bylaws, board-approved policies, applicable law and any written direction issued by IDA Administration. The handbook takes effect on the effective date shown above or on a later date recorded on the signature page.

Interpretation and precedence

- IDA bylaws, board resolutions and formally adopted IDA policies take precedence over this handbook.
- Where a current approved form, fee schedule, accreditation instrument or written IDA notice conflicts with an administrative detail in this handbook, the later approved instrument governs.
- IDA Administration resolves questions of interpretation after consulting the Global Network Executive Committee where appropriate.
- Nothing in this handbook creates a legal partnership, agency, franchise, employment or authority to bind IDA.

1. Purpose and Context

1.1 About IDA

The International Dyslexia Association (IDA) is a nonprofit organization dedicated to advancing understanding of dyslexia and promoting evidence-aligned literacy instruction and support. IDA brings together educators, researchers, professionals, families and advocates committed to equitable access, informed practice and improved outcomes for people with dyslexia and related reading difficulties.

1.2 Purpose of the Global Network

The IDA Global Network provides a formal structure through which eligible organizations outside the United States can connect with IDA, share knowledge, participate in coordinated initiatives and strengthen the international impact of IDA's mission.

- Share effective practices across languages, cultures and systems.
- Build sustainable relationships among organizations aligned with IDA's mission.
- Support responsible growth, professional learning and collaborative action.
- Promote quality, transparency and accountability in member organizations and joint initiatives.

1.3 Scope

This handbook establishes the common rules for membership, applications, renewal, governance, communication, collaborative work, programmes and institutional accreditation. It applies to member organizations, their designated representatives, Global Network Executive Committee members and IDA personnel administering the programme.

1.4 Core definitions

Term	Meaning
IDA	International Dyslexia Association.
Global Network or GN	IDA's international organizational network programme.
Member organization	An organization admitted at the Associate, Contributor or Partner level and remaining in good standing.
Main Contact	The person formally designated by a member organization to receive official GN communications.
IDA Administration	The CEO and authorized IDA staff responsible for programme administration and final operational oversight.
GN ExCom	The Global Network Executive Committee, which represents members and provides advice, coordination and recommendations within its delegated authority.
Good standing	Current dues and reporting, accurate records, required participation and compliance with applicable IDA policies.

2. Membership Framework

2.1 Standard terminology

The three membership levels are Associate, Contributor and Partner.

2.2 Eligibility common to all levels

- Be a legally established nongovernmental, charitable, nonprofit or equivalent mission-aligned organization in its jurisdiction.
- Maintain an active governing body or equivalent oversight structure.
- Demonstrate alignment with IDA's mission and a commitment to ethical, evidence-informed practice.
- Provide complete, accurate information and supporting documents.
- Accept the Participant Agreement, applicable brand rules, privacy requirements and twice-yearly reporting obligations.
- Pay applicable fees and dues according to the approved schedule.

2.3 Membership levels

Level	Profile	Core expectations	Engagement
Associate	Entry level for eligible organizations beginning a formal relationship with IDA.	Legal status; active governance; current operating plan; established services; annual contact and renewal.	Orientation, selected GN communications and up to two designated community meetings annually.
Contributor	Established organization demonstrating sustained operations, governance capacity and measurable service activity.	Normally at least three years of operation; three-year strategic plan; stable support; qualified leadership; outcome information; twice-yearly reporting.	Enhanced visibility and resources; up to three designated community meetings; eligibility for nomination to GN service roles subject to policy.
Partner	Most engaged level for mature organizations with demonstrated impact and capacity for regional or international leadership.	Contributor requirements plus substantial relevant programmes, demonstrated impact, readiness for deeper collaboration and completion of required institutional accreditation within the specified period.	Full GN meeting participation; leadership and collaborative-project opportunities; highest level of visibility, subject to approval and good standing.

MEMBERSHIP DEVELOPMENT PATHWAY

2.4 Benefits

Benefits are subject to the current approved membership schedule, availability and applicable IDA terms. They may include recognition, selected digital resources, meetings and forums, organizational or individual membership benefits, conference-related opportunities, communications features, translation requests and participation in approved initiatives. Benefits do not transfer ownership of IDA intellectual property or confer authority to speak for IDA.

2.5 Dues and fees

Level	Annual dues baseline	Application payment baseline
Associate	USD 100	USD 100 after eligibility confirmation.
Contributor	USD 350	USD 175 on application; remaining approved balance after acceptance.
Partner	USD 750	USD 375 on application; remaining approved balance after acceptance.

All application fees, membership dues and other GN charges must be paid through the GN Central Payment Gateway System. Payment outside GN Central is not recognized unless IDA Administration records a documented exception. The amounts above reflect the programme schedule used to prepare this edition. IDA may approve a later fee schedule, discount or adjustment; the amount displayed in GN Central at the time of payment controls. Fees and dues are non-refundable unless IDA states otherwise in writing.

3. Application, Review and Renewal

3.1 Application cycle

Applications for new Global Network membership are open throughout the year and are submitted online through GN Central. Complete applications are reviewed continuously rather than held for fixed application periods or cohorts. IDA may offer information sessions and publish service notices, but these do not restrict an eligible organization's ability to apply at any time.

3.2 Application steps

1. Create an authorized organizational account in GN Central and submit the Global Network Intent Form.
2. Receive an initial eligibility determination and a payment request within the GN Central Payment Gateway System.
3. Pay the applicable non-refundable application amount through the GN Central Payment Gateway System.
4. Complete the online Global Network Application and upload all requested evidence.
5. Participate in clarification, presentation or interview activities if requested.
6. Receive the recorded online review, vote and membership decision.
7. Complete the Participant Agreement and any remaining payment through GN Central.
8. Receive onboarding instructions and an activated organizational profile in GN Central.

YEAR-ROUND ONLINE APPLICATION AND DECISION FLOW

3.3 Supporting evidence

- Legal registration and governing documents.
- Current strategic or operating plan appropriate to the requested level.
- Governance, leadership and staffing information.
- Financial sustainability information proportionate to the level.
- Programme and service descriptions, outputs and outcomes.
- Internal or external reviews where required.
- Policies, references or other evidence reasonably requested by IDA.

3.4 Review and decision authority

Stage	Responsibility
Administrative screening	IDA staff confirm completeness, eligibility and payment status and record the date on which the application became complete.
Online committee review	Each assigned GN ExCom member must review the complete record, provide substantive written input and cast a vote in GN Central within 10 working days of the recorded complete-submission date.
Compliance determination	An applicant that satisfies the published conditions of its requested level may be accepted through the GN process. Separate approval by the IDA Board is not required.
Administrative confirmation	IDA Administration verifies procedural completion, records the outcome and issues the official online notice.
Activation	Membership becomes active after required agreements and payments are completed through GN Central.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE DUTY OF CARE

Reviewing applications is a formal duty of assigned GN ExCom members. A reviewer must examine the evidence, write meaningful input and cast a vote within 10 working days. A conflict of interest, planned absence or inability to meet the deadline must be declared promptly so the review can be reassigned. GN Central must retain the review, vote, timestamp and authority level in the audit record.

An application is accepted when the evidence satisfies the published conditions for the membership level and a simple majority of the valid votes cast by the assigned, non-conflicted reviewers supports acceptance. The authority matrix in GN Central determines who may review and vote. A tied or procedurally incomplete review is referred to the GN Chair and IDA Administration for resolution within the GN process; it is not referred to the IDA Board solely for membership approval.

3.5 Appeals of membership-level decisions

An applicant may appeal an Executive Committee decision that admits the organization at a membership level other than the level requested. A current member may also appeal a decision not to approve its properly submitted request for promotion to the next membership level. The appeal must be submitted in writing to the IDA Chief Executive Officer within 30 calendar days after the official decision notice and must identify the decision challenged, the grounds for appeal and the outcome requested.

The Chief Executive Officer may review the application record, the Executive Committee's reasons, the appellant's written submission and any clarification the Chief Executive Officer considers necessary. The Chief Executive Officer may confirm, vary or return the decision for further review. The Chief Executive Officer's written decision is final within the Global Network process. An appeal does not suspend the original decision unless the Chief Executive Officer directs otherwise in writing.

3.6 Level changes

Level-change opportunities are available throughout the year because each organization may renew on its own membership anniversary. A member must remain in its current level for at least one full year before requesting a change. The request may be submitted only as part of that member's annual renewal process in GN Central. The organization must meet the current requirements of the requested level, upload any additional evidence and pay applicable charges through the GN Central Payment Gateway System. A change is not effective until the online review is complete and IDA Administration records the new level in GN Central. Where the evidence does not support the requested level, the member remains at its current level, provided it continues to meet that level's requirements.

3.7 Annual renewal

1. Confirm the current Main Contact, authorized users and organization profile.
2. Confirm that both six-month activity reports and supporting media have been uploaded.
3. Confirm compliance with meeting-attendance and participation obligations.
4. Submit the current Annual Global Network Form and required updates.
5. Pay annual dues through the GN Central Payment Gateway System by the stated deadline.
6. Resolve any conditions or corrective actions.
7. Receive renewal confirmation through GN Central.

4. Membership Responsibilities and Status

4.1 Responsibilities of every member

- Maintain legal and ethical operation in its jurisdiction.
- Keep IDA informed of material changes in leadership, legal status, mission or capacity.
- Protect confidential GN and applicant information.
- Use IDA and GN names, logos and materials only as authorized.
- Avoid statements implying that the organization is IDA or can bind IDA.
- Attend at least 75% of the GN meetings required or designated for its membership level during each rolling 12-month period.
- Maintain meaningful interaction by responding to official communications, participating in relevant GN activities and keeping its profile current.
- Submit an activity and impact report twice each year, with appropriate photographs and/or video material, through its GN Central profile.
- Complete renewal actions and payments through GN Central.
- Cooperate with reasonable quality, compliance or safeguarding inquiries.

4.2 Six-month activity and impact reporting

Each member organization must submit two reports per calendar year through its GN Central profile: one covering 1 January–30 June and one covering 1 July–31 December. Reports are due within 30 calendar days after the close of each reporting period.

- Summary of activities, services, events and partnerships.
- Participation and beneficiary information appropriate to the work.
- Outcomes, achievements, challenges and lessons learned.
- Priorities and planned activity for the following six months.
- Photographs and/or short video materials suitable for showcasing approved work.
- Confirmation that necessary consent, safeguarding, copyright and privacy permissions have been obtained for all uploaded media.

MEMBER PARTICIPATION AND REPORTING CYCLE

4.3 Main Contact

Each organization must maintain one official Main Contact. Changes should be reported within 30 calendar days. The Main Contact is responsible for receiving notices, coordinating authorized users and sharing relevant GN information internally. IDA may require separate contacts for billing, accreditation or programme work.

4.4 Status categories

Status	Meaning	Typical consequence
Active / good standing	All material obligations are current.	Benefits and access appropriate to level remain available.
Conditional	Membership continues subject to stated corrective action and deadline.	Some benefits or approvals may be limited.
Inactive	Required dues, reporting, participation or contact obligations are unresolved.	Access, voting or visibility may be suspended.
Suspended	Serious or urgent compliance concern requires temporary restriction.	Use of GN benefits and identifiers may be paused.
Terminated	Membership has ended by withdrawal, non-renewal or IDA decision.	GN access and representation cease; protected materials must no longer be used.

4.5 Participation review, corrective action and tier consequences

GN Central will support a standing review of attendance, participation, six-month reporting, profile completeness and payment. A member that falls below the required participation standard, misses a six-month report or fails to provide adequate supporting evidence may be placed on conditional status and given 30 calendar days to correct the deficiency. Persistent or repeated non-compliance may result in loss of benefits, inactive status, suspension, reassignment to the next lower membership tier where eligibility permits, non-renewal or termination. The member will receive written notice and an opportunity to respond before a tier reduction or termination, except where immediate protective action is required.

5. Governance and Authority

5.1 Governance principle

The Global Network is an IDA programme. Shared leadership and member participation are encouraged, while fiduciary, legal, policy, financial, brand and employment authority remains with IDA and its duly authorized governing bodies and personnel.

5.2 GN Executive Committee

The GN ExCom represents member perspectives, supports communication and exercises its assigned review and voting responsibilities for membership applications, programmes, projects and strategy. Its authority is limited to responsibilities formally delegated by IDA and configured for each member in GN Central.

- Support implementation and periodic review of this handbook.
- Review assigned complete applications, record substantive written input and cast an online vote within 10 working days.
- Declare conflicts, absences or inability to complete an assigned review immediately.
- Encourage member engagement, learning and communication.
- Recommend priorities, programmes and collaborative projects.
- Support meetings, elections, orientation and succession planning.
- Monitor agreed actions and report concerns to IDA Administration.
- Promote equity, inclusion, transparency and responsible stewardship.

5.3 Committee composition

The committee has a streamlined structure consisting of a Chair and a manageable number of At-Large or member-organization representatives, together with an IDA staff liaison or IDA appointee where provided by the current approved governance resolution. The approved roster maintained by IDA is authoritative. The committee may not add voting seats or alter its composition without the required IDA approval.

5.4 Officer responsibilities

Role	Primary responsibilities
Chair	Leadership; agendas; liaison with IDA; follow-through; representation within delegated authority.
At-Large / member representatives	Bring relevant expertise and member perspectives; review applications; vote; participate in programmes and task groups.
IDA staff liaison / appointee	Administrative continuity; meeting and decision records; distribution of approved materials; policy alignment; risk escalation; coordination with IDA leadership.

5.5 Terms, nominations and appointments

Terms, eligibility, nomination procedures, appointments and any election process must follow the current governance resolution approved by IDA. No person assumes office until the appointment or election is confirmed in writing and any required IDA approval is complete. Vacancies may be filled for the remainder of a term through the approved process.

5.6 Voting and decisions

- The GN ExCom votes online in GN Central on membership applications and other matters within its delegated authority.
- For a complete membership application, each assigned member must write substantive input and vote within 10 working days of the recorded complete-submission date.
- A simple majority of valid votes cast by assigned, non-conflicted reviewers determines the committee outcome when the published membership conditions are satisfied.
- A member may abstain only for a recorded conflict of interest or another reason accepted by the Chair or IDA Administration; non-response is not treated as a completed duty.
- GN Central must identify voter eligibility, authority level, the question, deadline, outcome and audit timestamps.
- Applicants satisfying the published membership conditions do not require a separate IDA Board approval.
- Member-wide voting occurs only when expressly authorized by current IDA policy.
- Policy, budget, contractual, employment, legal and brand decisions remain subject to the appropriate IDA authority.

5.7 Conflicts of interest

Participants must disclose actual, potential or perceived conflicts. A conflicted person must not review confidential materials, influence discussion or vote on the affected matter unless IDA determines that a limited role is appropriate. Disclosures and recusals must be recorded.

6. Meetings, Communication and Records

6.1 Meeting framework

Forum	Purpose	Typical participation
GN ExCom meeting	Governance, recommendations, oversight and action tracking.	Committee members and invited IDA personnel.
Community / “Sip and Chat” forum	Updates, member exchange, learning and introductions.	Member organizations according to current annual schedule.
Partner strategy meeting	Strategic dialogue with IDA leadership.	Eligible Partner representatives and invited IDA leaders.
Information session	Orientation for prospective applicants.	Prospective organizations and programme personnel.
IDA conference activity	Approved networking, learning or representation.	Invited participants under event terms and registration requirements.

Meeting frequency and invitations are published annually. An invitation does not waive conference registration, travel or other costs unless IDA states this in writing.

6.2 Official communication

- Official notices are issued through GN Central, a role-based IDA address or another approved IDA system.
- Members must keep contact information current and monitor official channels.
- The Main Contact is responsible for internal distribution within the organization.
- Sensitive applicant, member, personnel or accreditation information must not be placed in open messaging groups.
- Public statements or media activity using IDA identity require authorization when required by IDA policy.

6.3 Records and confidentiality

IDA maintains official membership, decision and governance records. Committee minutes must record attendance, recusals, motions or recommendations, outcomes and actions without unnecessarily reproducing confidential discussion. Access is role-based. Records must be retained according to IDA's approved retention and privacy requirements.

7. Concerns and Grievances

7.1 Informal resolution

Where safe and appropriate, members should first seek a respectful, prompt resolution with the relevant person or programme contact. Informal resolution is not required for allegations involving misconduct, safeguarding, discrimination, retaliation, legal risk or a conflict involving the GN Chair.

7.2 Formal grievance

1. Submit a written grievance within 30 calendar days to the designated role-based GN contact. If the concern involves that recipient, submit it directly to IDA Administration.
2. Identify the organization, relevant dates, issue, people involved, supporting evidence and requested outcome.
3. IDA acknowledges receipt normally within five business days and confirms the review route.
4. The respondent receives a fair opportunity to respond, subject to confidentiality and safety needs.
5. A written determination records the finding, rationale and any required action.
6. Matters involving significant legal, ethical, safeguarding or reputational risk are escalated immediately to IDA Administration.

7.3 Standards

- Impartiality and disclosed conflicts.
- Need-to-know confidentiality.
- No retaliation for good-faith participation.
- Documented decisions and secure records.

- Reasonable timelines, with written notice if an extension is needed.

7.4 Final authority

A grievance decision issued by IDA Administration is final within the GN process unless a separate IDA policy provides another appeal route. This section does not limit rights available under applicable law.

8. Collaborative Projects

8.1 Definition and eligibility

A Collaborative Project is a defined, time-limited initiative intended to produce a specific shared outcome. Partner members in good standing may propose and lead projects. Contributor members may participate when approved. Eligibility does not guarantee approval or funding.

8.2 Proposal requirements

- Purpose and alignment with IDA priorities.
- Measurable objectives, deliverables and intended beneficiaries.
- Lead organization and responsibilities of all parties.
- Timeline, normally not exceeding one year.
- Budget, funding sources and requested IDA support.
- Risk, safeguarding, data privacy, intellectual property and evaluation arrangements.
- Communication, brand use and dissemination plan.

8.3 Approval and agreement

The GN ExCom may review and recommend a project. IDA Administration provides final approval and may require a written project agreement, budget authorization, data terms, intellectual-property terms or CEO review. No applicant may commit IDA resources, branding or personnel before written approval.

8.4 Monitoring and reporting

The lead organization supplies updates at the frequency stated in the approval. A final report is due within 30 days after completion and must address activities, results against objectives, expenditure where relevant, participant feedback, lessons and supporting evidence. Extensions or material changes require prior written approval.

8.5 Funding and compliance

Projects are self-funded unless an approved agreement states otherwise. All funding sources must be disclosed. IDA may modify, pause or terminate a project that departs from its approval, creates unacceptable risk or fails to meet reporting requirements.

9. Global Network Programmes

9.1 Definition

A GN Programme is a sustained or recurring initiative advancing IDA's mission through professional learning, awareness, research exchange, advocacy, resource development or another approved area. Programmes may extend beyond one year, subject to annual review.

9.2 Proposal and approval

Contributor and Partner members, the GN ExCom or IDA Administration may propose a programme. The proposal must address mission alignment, objectives, measures, participants, governance, timeline, budget, risks, intellectual property and dissemination. The GN ExCom may recommend; IDA Administration retains final approval.

9.3 Implementation

- Name an accountable Programme Lead.
- Maintain an approved workplan and decision record.
- Provide progress information at the agreed frequency.
- Measure outputs, outcomes, participation and lessons.
- Obtain approval before material changes or public commitments.
- Submit an annual report and a completion report within 30 days of conclusion.

10. Institutional Accreditation

10.1 Purpose and eligibility

Institutional Accreditation is a separate quality-assurance process available to eligible GN organizations. It examines organizational alignment, governance, programmes, impact, financial stewardship, professional capacity and collaboration. Partner members must meet the accreditation obligation stated in their acceptance terms and current programme policy.

10.2 Controlling materials

ACCREDITATION CONTROLS

The current Institutional Accreditation Plan, application, self-study instrument, marking scheme, reviewer guidance and executed project agreement control the detailed standards, evidence and fees. GN Central must display the approved version date and restrict confidential case materials by role.

10.3 Process

1. Readiness discussion and statement of interest.
2. Application, payment and agreement requirements.
3. Mentor or consultant assignment where provided.
4. Self-study and evidence submission.
5. Desktop review and clarification.
6. Peer review activity, virtual or in person as approved.
7. Evaluation and written recommendation.
8. IDA decision and notification.
9. Corrective action, monitoring or reaccreditation as applicable.

10.4 Decisions

Possible outcomes may include accreditation, conditional accreditation, deferral pending evidence or corrective action, or denial, as defined by the current accreditation policy. The review team recommends; final authority rests with IDA Administration or another body formally designated by IDA.

10.5 Fees, timing and cycle

Fees, instalments, review timing, travel costs and the accreditation cycle are governed by the current approved accreditation schedule and executed agreement.

10.6 Appeals and confidentiality

An institution may appeal according to the current accreditation policy, normally within 30 calendar days of the decision. Accreditation submissions, reviewer materials and deliberations are confidential. IDA may publish status or an approved case study only as permitted by policy and with required authorization.

11. Digital Administration and GN Central

11.1 Purpose

GN Central is the programme's operational workspace for approved users. It may provide applications, reviews, decisions, membership records, resources, programmes, accreditation workflows, communications and reporting from one integrated environment.

11.2 Access principles

- Least privilege: users receive only the access needed for their role.
- Assigned-case access: reviewers see only cases formally assigned to them.
- Authority-aware review: written input and voting controls follow each user's approved authority level.
- Time-bound accountability: the system records the 10-working-day application-review deadline and overdue duties.
- Integrated payment: application fees, dues and other approved charges are processed through the GN Central Payment Gateway System.
- Member reporting: profiles support twice-yearly activity reports and consent-cleared photographs and video.
- Separation of duties: review, administrative confirmation, payment administration and system administration are distinguished where practical.
- Confidentiality: applicant, member and accreditation materials are not public resources.
- Auditability: submissions, reviews, votes, payments, reports, status changes and permission changes are recorded.
- Timely removal: access is changed promptly when a role or relationship ends.

11.3 Controlling document

The signed PDF of this handbook is the formal record. Interactive pages may summarize and guide users but must not change policy meaning. Each page must identify its source section, version and effective date. Where a discrepancy is discovered, the signed handbook governs until an authorized correction is issued.

11.4 Accessibility and language

IDA should present the handbook in accessible digital formats and may authorize translations. An approved English-language version remains controlling unless IDA formally designates another version. Translations must be reviewed and must display the source version and approval status.

12. Handbook Administration

12.1 Ownership and review

IDA Administration owns this handbook and coordinates review with the GN ExCom. An administrative review should occur annually to verify names, contacts, forms, fees and linked instruments. A formal policy review should occur at least every three years or sooner after a material governance, legal or programme change.

12.2 Amendments

Editorial corrections that do not change policy meaning may be issued administratively with a version note. Material amendments require the approval authority stated on the document-control page. Members must receive reasonable notice of material changes.

12.3 IDA right to amend

IDA reserves the right, in its sole discretion, to revise, supplement, replace, suspend or withdraw any provision of this handbook at any time, as IDA considers appropriate, in accordance with its bylaws and its internal policies and procedures. Any such change may be made to address legal, regulatory, governance, safeguarding, risk-management, operational or strategic requirements and will take effect on the date specified by IDA. IDA will provide notice of material changes where reasonably practicable.

12.4 Questions

Questions must be directed to the role-based Global Network administrative contact published in GN Central. Individual staff addresses should not be embedded in the controlling handbook.

Appendix A — Membership Evidence Guide

Evidence	Associate	Contributor	Partner
Legal registration	Required	Required	Required
Active governing body	Required	Required	Required
Strategic/operating plan	Current operating or one-year plan	Current three-year plan	Current three-year plan
Financial sustainability	Documented plan	Documented support and stewardship	Documented support, stewardship and capacity

Programme/service evidence	Established activity	Outputs and outcome information	Established programmes and demonstrated impact
Review/evaluation evidence	Self-evaluation plan	Internal/external review where available or requested	Internal/external review and readiness evidence
Institutional accreditation	Not normally required	As stated in acceptance terms	Required within the period stated by IDA

Appendix B — Controlled Forms and Resources

The following resources are maintained separately so that operational updates do not require republishing the entire handbook. GN Central should display only the current approved version of each item.

- Global Network Intent Form.
- Global Network Application — Part A.
- Global Network Participant Agreement — Part B.
- Annual Global Network Form — Part C.
- Annual membership and fee schedule.
- Tier-specific renewal instructions.
- Collaborative Project Guide, application and scoring rubric.
- Institutional Accreditation Plan, application, self-study, marking scheme and reviewer guidance.
- IDA brand, privacy, safeguarding, records and conflict-of-interest policies.
- Current GN governance resolution and authorized committee roster.

Appendix C — Approval Checklist

Complete this checklist before the handbook is circulated for signature. Supporting resolutions or approved schedules should be retained with the signed master copy.

Publication authorization

Completion of the approval record authorizes IDA Administration to release the signed PDF as the controlling handbook and to publish a faithful, accessible interactive version in GN Central.

- The signed master must be stored in the approved IDA records location.
- GN Central must display the version and effective date on every handbook page.
- Any later correction or amendment must follow Section 12 and be recorded in version history.

END OF CONTROLLING TEXT

Appendices and linked operational instruments form part of the GN framework only to the extent that they are current, approved and identified in GN Central.
